I. ORGANIZATION INFORMATION

A. Summary of Organization

History - In the Beginning: In 1976, a small group of women came together, dedicated to addressing a deadly disease. Their goal was to increase community awareness around the issues of addiction and its systemic consequences. With committed hearts and a defined vision, Perspectives was founded.

A major shift occurred in the 1980s when the current President/CEO was hired and Perspectives departed from its initial focus of addiction recovery advocacy and community awareness to begin providing direct services. In the 1990s, Perspectives specifically sought to serve homeless, recovering women and their children with the purchase of five apartment buildings in St. Louis Park. The buildings are all connected on one campus and provide a supportive housing community for a portion of our clients.

Expansion of Services: In 1991, Perspectives adopted a new mission statement reflecting our target population and our philosophy of providing opportunity. In 1994 we purchased a 22,000 square foot office building, which was renovated into the Perspectives Family Center. The Family Center houses the majority of our programming and staff. It is conveniently located just one mile from our apartment community. Currently, our properties are valued at a total of $7 million.

Our new mission drove the development of strategies which targeted our population's core needs, such as safe housing, chemical treatment, and mental health services. Addressing these issues stabilizes a family and sets the stage for breaking dysfunctional cycles. For the next 10 years we developed numerous programs, all with the goal of breaking cycles. In 2006, we became medical assistance providers. Our case managers all have extensive chemical health experience and we recently hired additional mental health staff.

In October of 2009, Perspectives was chosen as one of nine supportive housing programs in the nation to be awarded a grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services under the Substance Abuse Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). The grant of $1.8 million over five years funded the Main Street Collaborative. The Collaborative is a partnership between Perspectives' Supportive Housing Program and our sister agency, Wayside Housing. The grant enabled both agencies to expand their mental health service capacity. Also in 2009, Perspectives became a United Way agency through the award of a Reading by 3rd Grade grant, which became a component of our Kids Connection Program. In 2011, United Way began to fund our Supportive Housing Program. In 2012, so impressed was United Way with our Reading by 3rd Grade outcomes, that they increased our current Reading by 3rd Grade grant from $60,000 to $100,000.

Today: We are the largest supportive housing program for women and children in Minnesota, housing over 75 women and over 130 children annually. Our services are extensive and span from recovery and mental health programs to employment and parenting education. In addition, Perspectives is the only supportive housing program that provides a 12-month, comprehensive, in-house academic, social, and nutritional enrichment program for the children. Because of our excellent outcomes, in 2012 our Kids Connection Program became one of 18 grantees across the state of Minnesota to receive funding from the Minnesota Department of Education to become a 21st Century Community Learning Center. As a 21st Century Learning Center, Kids Connection provides critical 12-month academic programming for homeless and at-risk children who are in kindergarten through eighth grade.

Our Facilities: One of our major strengths is the quality of our facilities and grounds. We want them to be attractive and well-maintained for our families. All too often, non-profit organizations allow their facilities to deteriorate, which we believe sends a message to the families they serve that they are not special, they are not welcomed, and life is a struggle. Our strategy is different. We want our families to feel as though they are very important to us. We believe that the condition of our facilities contributes to communicating that feeling.

The five apartment buildings that make up our housing campus sit next to each other at the end of a cul-de-sac. This campus adjoins a large city park with basketball courts. The courts are heavily utilized by our teens and local police officers, who form a summer team each year. (Our local officers have become outstanding mentors for the hundreds of youth living in our supportive housing and in the surrounding community.) In addition, with the City's consent, the park has become the site for two large gardens that are planted and maintained by our residents. Many of our families have their own garden plots, which are filled with flowers and vegetables. Down the road from the housing campus, Perspectives' Family Center is also busy seven days a week throughout each year, providing services that reunite and strengthen families. In all aspects of programming, Perspectives does not seek short-term solutions. Our strategies are designed to address both the mental and physical health issues of our families in a comprehensive manner, over a substantial period of time. We believe that these areas are essential to strengthening the family unit for the long term.

B. Summary of Mission and Goals

Mission: Over the years Perspectives has made a major shift from providing broad-based community addiction education to providing direct services to those most affected by the disease – the addict, and, to a greater extent, the addict's children.

Our mission is: Breaking the cycle for at-risk families and children for total family recovery.

Agency Goals:

- Return homeless/recovering women and children to the economic and social mainstream.
- Unlock potential for homeless and at-risk children by providing comprehensive academic, nutritional, and social opportunities.

- Remove barriers to chemical and mental health services for homeless and at-risk families and children.
- Increase opportunities for employment through counseling, advocacy, and removing barriers for enhanced education and training.
- Reunite families and children by providing supervision and parent education.

C. Perspectives Parenting Time Program

Program Goal: To provide a safe and nurturing environment for children to meet with their non-custodial parents and to provide parenting support for at-risk parents; a corollary goal is to safely transition parents mandated to undergo strict supervision to a more favorable status of limited monitoring.

Target Population: Children with parents under court order for supervised visitation.

Program Summary: Parenting Time reunites traumatized/abused children with parents who are court ordered for supervision. Parents and children who have been ripped apart through addictions, abuse, and mental health issues become reunited through parent coaches and curriculum. The program services are designed to interrupt destructive cycles so that children can once again feel safe with a parent who is committed to reestablishing trust and care for their child.

The following is a typical profile of a family seeking services from our Parenting Time Program:

- Experiencing separation and divorce.
- In need of support to reunite parents with children after separations which can range from a few months to several years.
- Court-ordered to receive supervised parenting time services due to chemical dependency, domestic violence, child abuse and/or mental health issues.
- In need of information and support on how to parent appropriately.
- Choosing an affirmative solution over the adversarial nature of the court system.
- Unable to agree on how to parent their children following a divorce.
- Seeking to transition from supervised to unsupervised access to their children.
- Lacking sufficient income for families with children.

Long-Term Funding Strategies

Perspectives has a long history of launching and sustaining programs. Our Supportive Housing Program was launched in 1992 with the purchase of two apartment buildings. At that time, the annual program budget was $300,000. Today we own five apartment buildings and a 22,000 square foot Family Center with a combined value of $8 million. The annual supportive housing program budget has grown to over $1 million, and over the past 22 years, all our programs have grown exponentially. Our budget is now supported by government contracts at the state and county levels, the United Way, and numerous foundations, as well as a growing donor base which allows us to meet our expenses. Another example of increased funding is in our Kids Connection Program, which includes Kids Cafe. First launched in 1998 by Novartis, it is now sustained through Target, United Way, and the Minnesota Department of Education. (A significant accomplishment is that United Way, impressed with our outcomes, has tripled their funding to us over the past three years).

However, going forward we recognize that we cannot take this history for granted. Considering the new economy, our plans must be strategic and realistic. As Twin Cities corporations and foundations redefine funding priorities or adopt “focus funding,” as government funding shrinks, and as individual donors more carefully scrutinize and reduce their donations, it is critical for us to position ourselves and prepare for the significant shifting of Minnesota and the nation’s philanthropic focus. Fortunately, our programs, which “help create pathways out of poverty”, have become a high funding priority for area funders, including the Twin Cities United Way. We anticipate continual new funding from United Way over the years, as well as growing our individual donor list. Over the last couple of years, we note a 50 percent increase in individual donors.

For several reasons, including financial sustainability, Perspectives’ Board of Directors has launched a $6 million capital drive to address our long-term goals. The Perspectives capital drive, SEEDS OF CHANGE: Transforming Families and Futures, just completed Phase I with the replacement of the Family Center roof and addition of 135 solar panels. An adjoining rooftop garden will be used to grow vegetables and herbs for our Kids Cafe. It will be attached to a greenhouse, which will house our new Children’s Earth Science Program.

Over the next three years, the plans include expanding our Family Center by an additional 7,500 square feet to enhance family programming, including the implementation of a Behavior Health Home, which will provide both family and children’s mental health services to homeless and at-risk families.
